

57 "St Francis Hotel", from O'FarrellSt & Mason Sts.

58 U.S. Post-Office Building
7th and Mission Streets.

59. U.S. Appraisers Building

Showing the only block of houses
in the burned district not
destroyed by fire

56. "St. Francis" Hotel, corner Geary ^{and} Powell streets as seen from Post ^{and} Stockton Sts., across Union Square.

57 "St Francis Hotel", from O'FarrellSt & Mason Sts.

58 U.S. Post Office Building
7th and Mission Streets.

59 U.S. Appraisers Building

Showing the only block of houses
in the burned district not
destroyed by fire

60. Forest of Chimneys, being all that remained of a large apartment house at Broadway and Hyde streets.

61. "California Pioneers" Building, Fourth St.

62. "Fairmount" Hotel from Union Square

63. Hall of Justice, before

64

and after the conflagration.

65 A barren waste, as seen from the corner of Broadway and Van Ness Ave.
The lone chimney on top of the hill marks
the spot where once stood the Power House of the Union St. Cable Railway

66. Looking across Union Square from Post and Powell streets showing wreckage from the Hotel "Savoy" on the left, with the new "Chronicle" building looming up beyond, the Whittell Building in the center, Spring Valley Water Company's building and Newman and Levinson's new Building on the right.

Kohl Bldg Murchs. Ex. Fairmount Hotel
Flood Mansion "Chronicle" "Call"

Jerry Building
Hall of Justice

67. Panoramic view from Sacramento ^{9th} Leavenworth Sts.

68. Panoramic view from Buena Vista Park

12 Van Ness Avenue at Vallejo St.